SUPERVISORS OF ELECTIONS. The Democrats in congress are in earnest in their determination to repeal the election laws by which supervisors and marshals are enabled to imprison freemen at their own discretion. In a recent article the Washington Post says: "Democrats of the house of representatives, you are expected by the party which you assume to represent to stand up as one man in defense of fair jury trials and honest elections. Having stricken down the test-oath provision, so far as you are able complete the work, by making it impossible for such marshals as Conant, of Florida, serving such judges as Settle, to pack juries to punish Democrats for running on or voling Democratic tickets. And, above all, d not allow a dollar to be appropriated unless the infamous supervisor law, which was amuggled into the revised statutes, is stricken out. Honest and fair elections are demanded by every class of people, except regues or thieves. If the senate declines to unite with you, let the responsibility fall on them. You have the initiative power, and will be held to strict accountability for your use of it. Out of two hundred papers that come to this office, we do not recall one that upes not unite with us in this demand. All we ask is an honest election, impartial laws, fair trials by fairly summoned jumes, and a common fate for offenders, without regard to politics, complexion or religion, Stand up for that at all hazards."

OPPOSITION TO THE CHINESE. The war upon Chinesa immigration is a old as the State of California. The conflict commenced in 1872, with a message which Governor Bigler scur to the California legislature. The fame of the newly discovered wealth of that country had crossed the Pacific came in the first flush of the excitement sent business open for them at San Francisco Sacramento and Marysville. Some of them entered into all domestic and other common employments The bolder and hardier went into the mine: ould strongle for, they took up places that had been worked and abandoned, and still made good profit out of them. Trade with China mean while increased; and the carrying trade between the two shores of the Pacific became large and prosperous. In the autums of 1852 Governor Bigler, foreseeing the storm, issued a message recommending a law forbidding Chinamen to work in the mines. He denounced them as liars and thieves-ignorant of the nature of an oath, and unconscious of the difference between right and wrong. This was the beginning

Ten days later Mrs. Meyer, wife of the physician, was taken ill likewise, suffering from cramps and severe vomiting. Chloroform was also used in her case, and the same treatment was observed with her that Dr. Meyer used in Mr. Gelder-man's case. The woman lived but a short time, and passed away. The burial certif cate in this case stated that the deceased hat come to her death from a compound attack of metro-peritonitis and gastritis—two disease which some physicians say are never associated together in any case. The two deaths with the attending circumstances, former the subject of considerable gossip among the neighbors and friends of Gulderman, and various and dark were the hints thrown ou that everything was not as it should be. Parties were found who were ready t affirm that criminal relations existed between Mrs, Gelderman and her family physician fo some time previous to the death of her hus band. It was also stated by a lady friend of the deceased woman that the latter had fold her confidentially that she had detected the we in improper relations in the office of her meband one day, by looking over the tran som, and she said she had nothing to live to now. Furthermore, it was alleged that Dr. Meyer had produced an abortion on his wife previous to her death, and called it a mis-carriage. Gelderman was known to be worth bout two hundred thousand dollars. He was not a robust man, but was inclined t delicate health for years before his death.

The surviving couple have been closely watched all winter. It is alleged that the intimacy between them has been kept or without intermission, and of late susthey were making preparations to dispose of their property and depart for unknown quarters. A short time ago Mrs. Geiderman old two houses and lots for three thousand eight handred dollars, receiving therefor one housand dollars in cash and a note for the emaining two thousand eight hundred dollars, running to next October. The neighbors felt that the time for definite action had arrived, and they accordingly placed the mat-ter in the hands of the city detectives About ten days ago it was found out that Dr. Meyer's name was not registered with the county clerk, an irregular thing of itself, as all practicing physicians in the city are re-quired by law to do this. As the officers procressed the plot thickened, and these men amiliar with crime in all its hideous forms as they were, were amazed at the apparent nhumanity and the audacity of the parties mplicated. Facts upon facts were discovared which led them to believe that the accused were black with guilt, and yet there was no absolute proof to be had of the alleged murder. At length parties were found who would swear that Dr. Meyer used the astonshing quantity of eighteen ounces of chloro-orm upon Mr. Gelderman, and that between he hours of ten in the morning and four i the afternoon, on the last day of his sick ness, the doctor stood over him, and held aturated sponge to his mouth and nose till he patient sank away from sheer exhaustion. Other parties were found willing to stake their reputations on the assertion that an abortion was performed on Mrs. Meyer before he same symptoms as Gelderman had co the influence of chlorofurm administered on
